Museum in a Box is a free educational resource featuring loan boxes filled with authentic historical objects for students and teachers to handle, explore and investigate.

Complete with catalogue cards, each box encourages hands-on learning and helps students develop a deeper understanding of life in the past. Loan boxes are available for a two-week period. For local schools, boxes are delivered and collected free of charge. As they are in high demand, early bookings are highly recommended.

Our Museum in A Box have a range of themes:

At the Shops – Discover how shopping has changed over time.

Changing Technology – Explore the evolution of technology from past to present.

Domestic Life – Everyday household items from years gone by.

On the Farm – Objects used by early Armadale farming families.

Toys – Traditional toys and games that entertained generations of children.
